

Once logged in as a user, my location will be pinged and I will be able to see the specific places, events, etc, found from the selection process, around me. If I wanted to restrict myself in specific radius, I will be able to type in the max distance I am willing to walk, drive, bike. Whenever I click on a restaurant, place, etc. I will see an option for directions and how long it will take depending on mode of transportation. In addition, if I wanted to see what is trending around my home or another location, I would be able to star my home location or type in a different address with the radius I want. As the user, my previously searched locations will be stored and that will coordinate with Favorites when I enter my max distance.